Zoo at the Museum

October 1 - November 17,
2013

Fukuoka Art Museum

What is “Zoo at the Museum”?

- First collaborative programs in educational programming between the Fukuoka Art Museum and the Fukuoka City Zoological Garden in Fukuoka, Japan.
- This 2013 initiative was undertaken to explore new ways of working together beyond the boundaries of humanities and sciences.

Fukuoka Art Museum

Fukuoka Art Museum

- Inaugurated in 1979, located in Ohori-Koen Park blessed with beautiful waters and greenery.
- A comprehensive museum housing a large collection of oriental pre-modern art works as well as modern art and contemporary art works.
- Housing about 15,000 art works as permanent collections.

Fukuoka City Zoological Garden

Fukuoka City Zoological Garden

- Inaugurated in 1953 on a hill in the center of Fukuoka city.
- The zoo and the botanical garden are connected with land bridge.
- Keeping approximately 130 kinds of animals.

Aims of collaborative educational programs

- To Exchange educational skills between an educator at the museum and a breeder at the zoo.
- To provide visitors with unique opportunity to see animals featured in the exhibition from various perspectives.

Two main programs

1. Zoo at the Museum: a gallery-based exhibition at the Fukuoka Art Museum.
2. Animal Art Tour: a lecture-workshop based event held at the zoo and the museum.

1. Zoo at the Museum

October 20th 2013

Horned owl's day at the museum

Gallery Talk and Workshop: Horned owl

Comments on Animal Art Tour

- Enjoyed knowing a lot about otters.
- Had fun creating my imaginary otter's house.
- Loved today's event! Gallery talks are often too difficult, but not today.
- A Breeder's and a museum educator's talks were interesting.
- First time to look closely at a horned owl for such a long time
- Wanted to know more about the artworks.
- Enjoyed creative workshop more than my children!
